LÄND

Welcome of the Conference Chairs

Dear participants,

we warmly welcome you to the 28th G-Forum in Stuttgart! Having hosted the conference in 2004 and 2018, we are honored to welcome our scientific community back to one of Germany's most dynamic innovation regions.

This year's theme, "It takes an ecosystem to raise a startup," is based in on an old African proverb. Raising a child requires the support, guidance, and involvement of an entire community. In our view, this proverb encapsulates both the academic discourse surrounding entrepreneurial ecosystems and the spirit of our conference. G-Forum 2025 is the result of close collaboration among four committed institutions – Universität Hohenheim, Universität Stuttgart, the Fraunhofer-Institut für Arbeitswirtschaft und Organisation (IAO), and the Hochschule der Medien Stuttgart – each bringing their perspective to the entrepreneurial landscape.

As a host, the Stuttgart region combines academic excellence, a thriving start-up scene and strong public and private institutions. With NXTGN recently being selected as one of ten Startup Factories, our region exemplifies how entrepreneurship can flourish when research, education, and support infrastructure are interconnected.

The conference unfolds across a diverse set of venues, mirroring the multifaceted spirit of Stuttgart:

- The Universität Hohenheim will host the FGF Doctoral Colloquium in its historic castle campus.
- The main conference will unfold at the Hochschule der Medien Stuttgart, with sessions in the award-winning interactive "Würfel" – home of the International Entrepreneurship Education Summit (IEES).
- We are especially thankful to be guests of key ecosystem partners on both evenings: the City of Stuttgart will host us at Stuttgart City Hall for the FGF Members' Meeting, and the L-Bank, Baden-Württemberg's central development bank, will open its Rotunde for the festive conference dinner. A special thanks also goes to all the supporters from our ecosystem ("THE Start-up LÄND") contributing to the conference.

This year's G-Forum takes place at a pivotal time. As the German Startup Factories initiative enters its implementation phase, we are convinced that lasting impact requires more than political commitment and funding. What is also needed is the trinity of entrepreneurship education, programs for startup support, and academic research. Aligning the three pillar empowers universities to become the hubs of innovation ecosystems.

With that we are delighted to welcome two distinguished keynote speakers:

- Prof. Dr. Erik Stam (Utrecht University), one of the leading voices on entrepreneurial ecosystems, and
- Dr. Danyal Bayaz (Finance Minister of Baden-Württemberg), a key political champion for innovation.

In addition to the tried-and-tested formats, we are introducing careful innovations to the program. Most notably, we are experimenting with workshops for the very first time – hosted in the Playpark. We invite you to engage in the sessions, workshops, and informal exchanges that making the G-Forum so special. Let us continue to foster our academic community and the impact of entrepreneurship research and education.

With warm regards,

Prof. Dr. Nils Högsdal (Hochschule der Medien Stuttgart)

Prof. Dr. Andreas Kuckertz (Universität Hohenheim)

Prof. Dr. Alexander Brem (Universität Stuttgart)

Prof. Dr. Katharina Hölzle (Universität Stuttgart / Fraunhofer IAO und Technologiebeauftragte der Wirtschaftsministerin)

FGF Doctoral Program – Class of 2026

FGF Doctoral Program – Class of 2026:

“How to successfully design, craft and publish entrepreneurship, family business and innovation research”

Brief Description

This program introduces doctoral students to academic research, writing, and publishing in the fields of entrepreneurship, innovation, and family business. While it is ideally suited for first- and second-year doctoral candidates, students at later stages of their doctoral journey will also benefit from learning alongside a diverse group of professors and researchers, and from engaging in meaningful discussions within a supportive, trust-based environment.

The program follows a blended learning format, combining online sessions with on-site workshops. Participants will not only gain valuable academic knowledge but also build a strong network with fellow doctoral students from across the DACH region. In addition, they will have the opportunity to present their own research and receive constructive feedback to advance their dissertation projects.

Although the program’s primary focus is on entrepreneurship and innovation, it is also open to doctoral students from related disciplines such as Information Systems (IS), Management, Marketing, Organizational Behavior (OB), and Organizational Psychology. Candidates whose research intersects with innovation, transformation, or entrepreneurship are especially encouraged to apply.

The program language is English.

Program Instructors

The program is organized by the FGF. The 2026 teaching faculty includes, among others:

- Prof. Dr. Jörn Block
- Prof. Dr. Christoph Stöckmann
- Prof. Dr. Diemo Urbig

The instructors have published in the leading entrepreneurship (e.g., JBV, ETP, SEJ, SBE), innovation (e.g., ResPol, JPIM), family business (e.g., FBR, JFBS) and (international) management (e.g., ASQ and JOM).

Schedule & Location

The online phase of the program will take place in June and July 2026. It will cover a range of topics, including, but not limited to, an introduction to the research and publishing process, topic choice and making a contribution, research design, empirical analysis, and academic writing. The program will conclude with a two-day on-site workshop, during which participants will have the opportunity to present their own research.

Further details will be provided in due course.

Program Fee

The regular program fee is €600. A reduced fee of €500 applies to participants who are FGF members or whose doctoral supervisor is an FGF member. The fee covers tuition and teaching materials. Lunch and dinner during the two-day on-site workshop are not included.

Contact and Registration

To register, please contact the FGF office at info@fgf-ev.de. The registration deadline is March 31, 2026.
